The Most Rev. George J. Rehring
Bishop of Toledo

Our Bishop

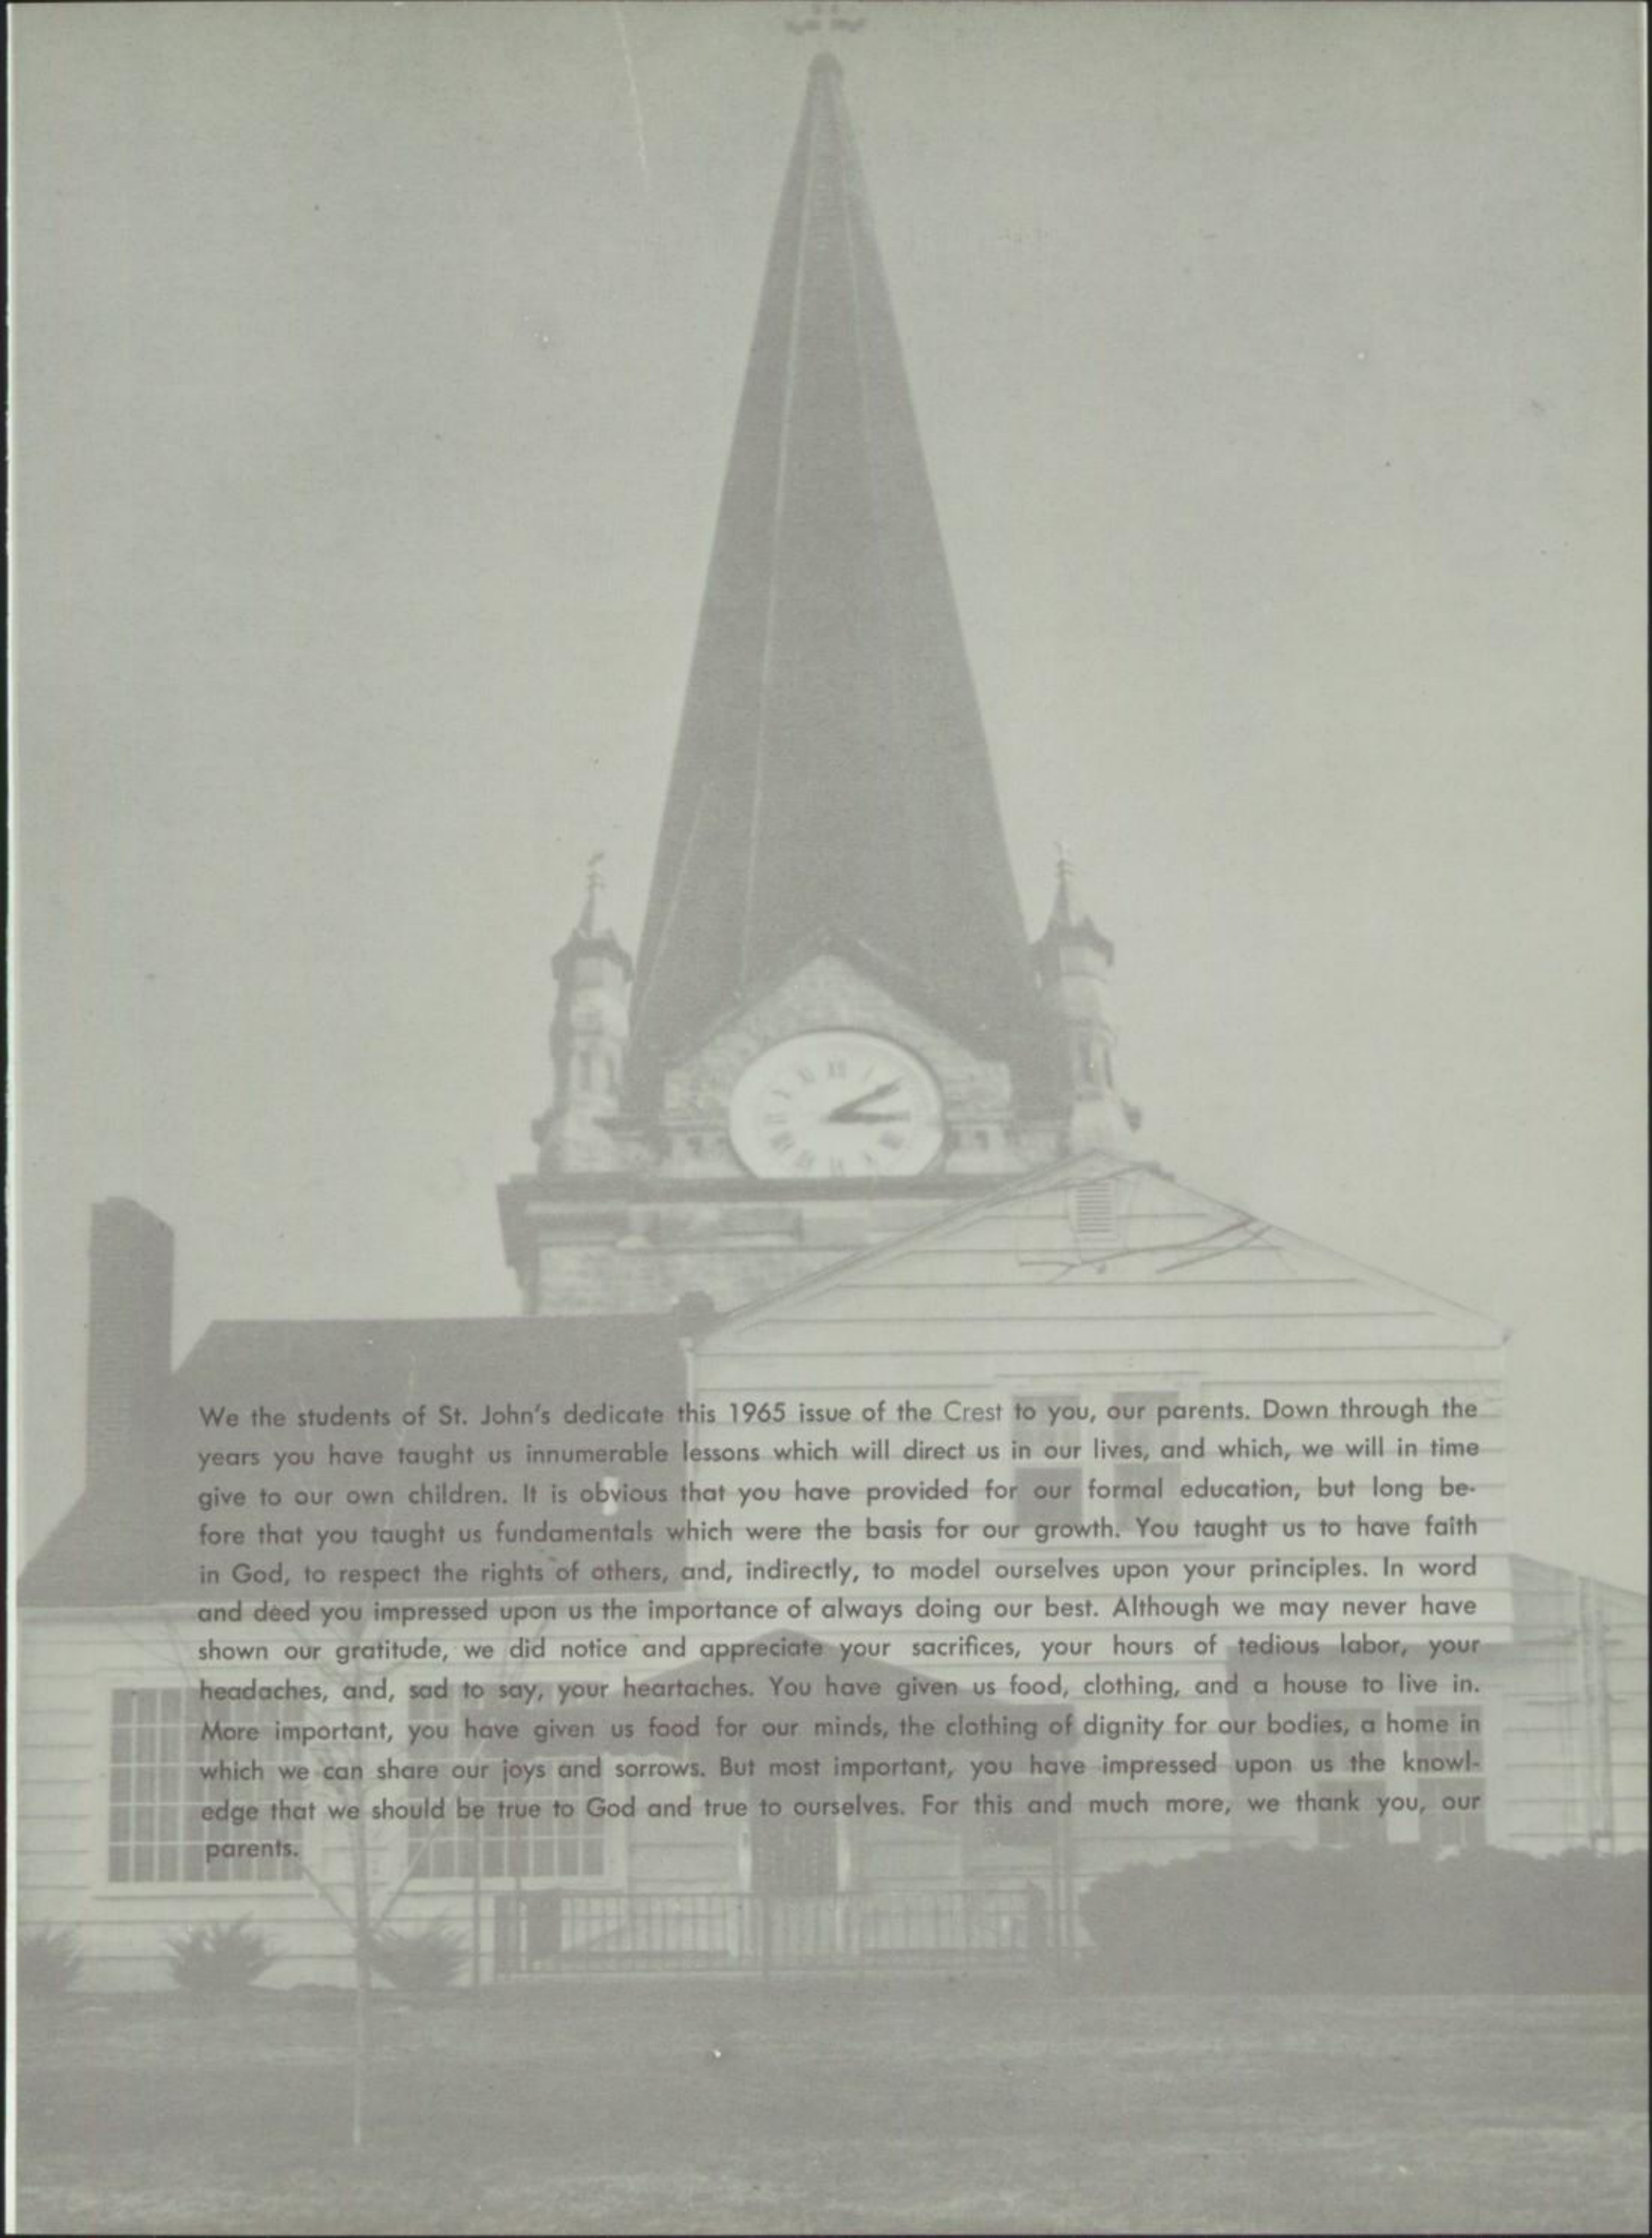

Bishop George J. Rehring has served our diocese as bishop for fifteen years. He has faithfully taken upon himself the burden of saving our souls as well as the thousands of other souls within the Toledo Diocese. It was Bishop Rehring who administered the sacrament of Confirmation to us as children. It is Bishop Rehring who represents us at each session of the Ecumenical Council. All these things and many more he has performed well for us. All due gratitude we give him in appreciation for the great work he has performed as our bishop.

Our Pastor

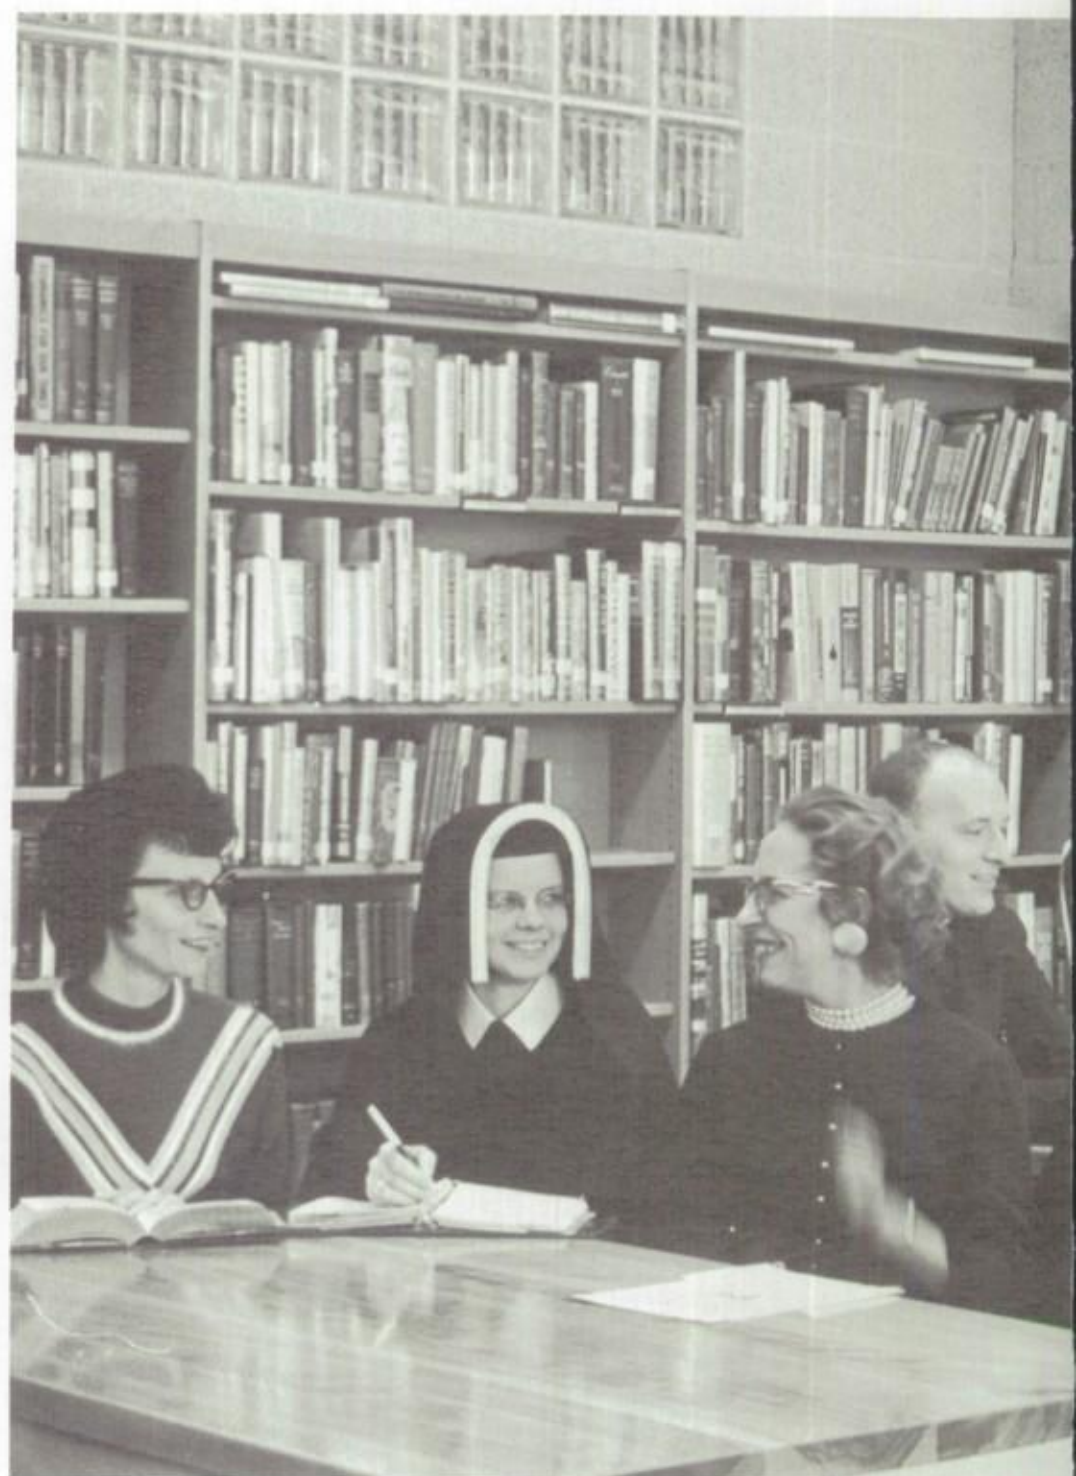

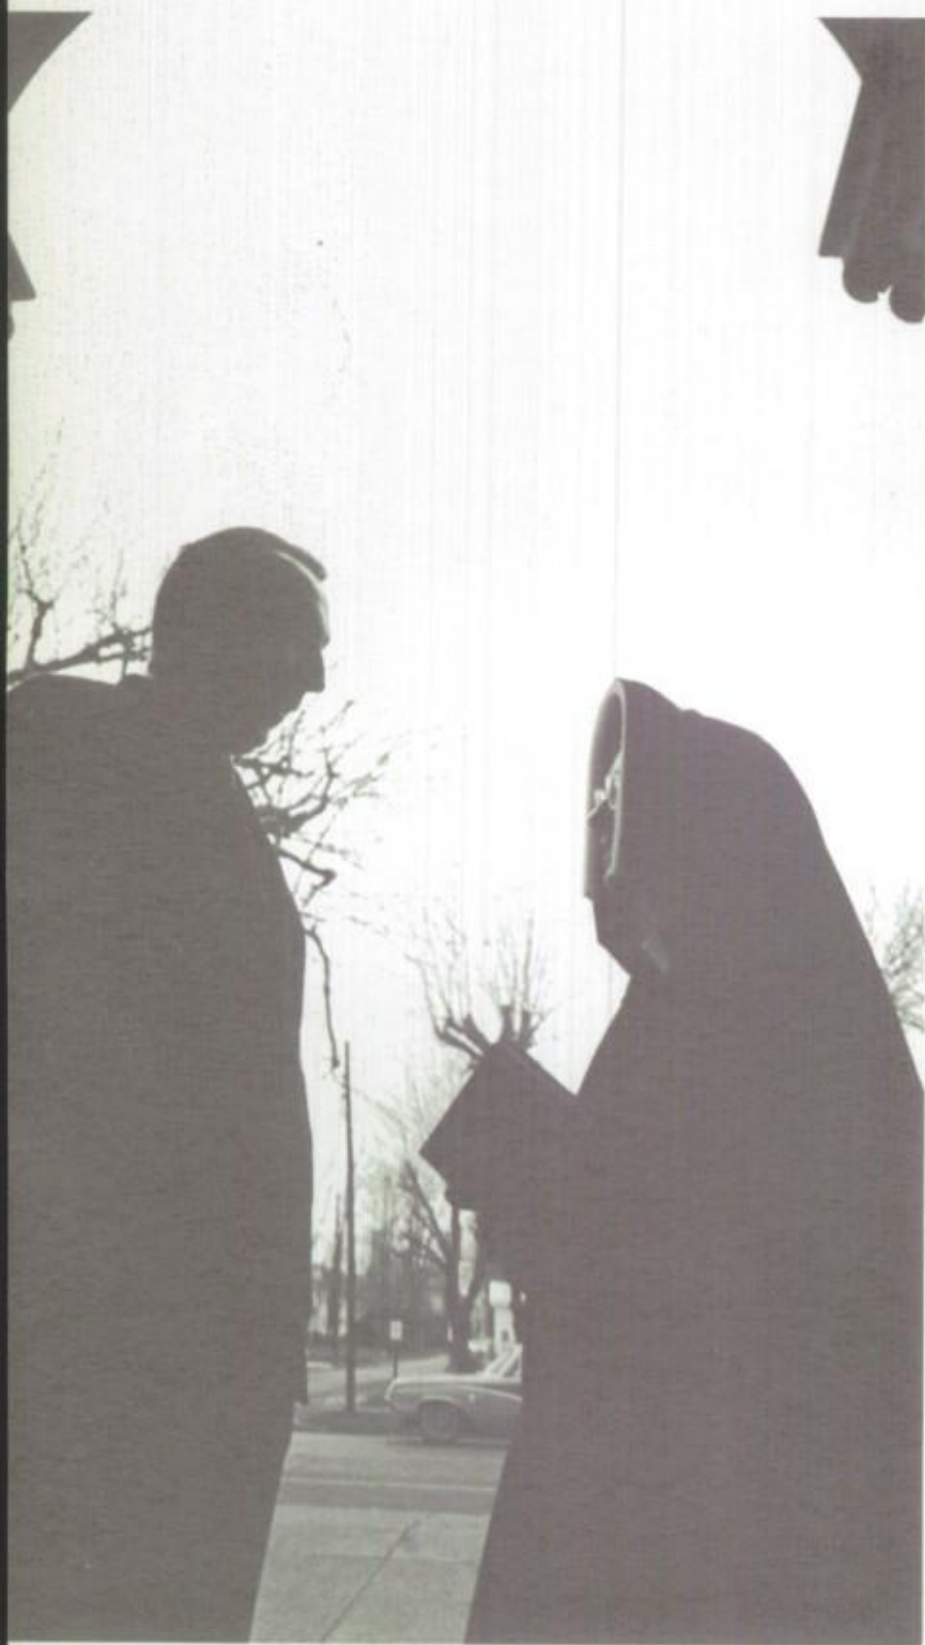

Three years ago, the Reverend Joseph I. Schill arrived at Delphos St. John's. During this short time he has contributed greatly to the spiritual, intellectual, physical and social development of the high school students. He has impressed upon our minds the true meaning of prayer, sacrifice, responsibility, study, dedication, determination and friendliness. These qualities he himself considers of great personal significance. Consequently, we appreciate the work he has accomplished as pastor.

The Rev. Joseph I. Schill

We the students of St. John's dedicate this 1965 issue of the Crest to you, our parents. Down through the years you have taught us innumerable lessons which will direct us in our lives, and which, we will in time give to our own children. It is obvious that you have provided for our formal education, but long before that you taught us fundamentals which were the basis for our growth. You taught us to have faith in God, to respect the rights of others, and, indirectly, to model ourselves upon your principles. In word and deed you impressed upon us the importance of always doing our best. Although we may never have shown our gratitude, we did notice and appreciate your sacrifices, your hours of tedious labor, your headaches, and, sad to say, your heartaches. You have given us food, clothing, and a house to live in. More important, you have given us food for our minds, the clothing of dignity for our bodies, a home in which we can share our joys and sorrows. But most important, you have impressed upon us the knowledge that we should be true to God and true to ourselves. For this and much more, we thank you, our parents.

... More than

The faculty of St. John's is known for its dedication to the work of teaching students in both intellectual and spiritual matters. The faculty: priests, religious and lay teachers have full-time schedules, yet they are always willing to offer extra assistance to any student.

It is impossible to describe Father Thomas Kuhn in one word, because unlike many men, his duties are not limited to one particular field. Father Kuhn is priest, teacher, administrator, athletic director, producer and director of the class play, and businessman. But, for all his duties, Father never loses the personal contact he has with the students. He is always there to correct or commend us and to help us in our difficulties.

Father Gorman, Father Parker, and Father Gallagher teach the boys' religion classes. They have impressed the boys with the importance of knowing and following the teachings of the Catholic Church as a means of living useful and holy lives.

We students feel especially indebted to the Sisters of Notre Dame who have been with St. John's since its founding. These religious women have dedicated their lives to the service of God in teaching. They guide us on the right paths and make us aware of our responsibilities to God, our neighbors, and ourselves. It would be impossible to list all the ways they help us. All we can do is offer our most sincere gratitude to them.

We are privileged to have on our faculty a group of lay teachers who are well qualified. Some of them double as teachers and coaches. During the school day they instruct their students in American government, geography, general math and biology. After the final bell, they spend additional hours coaching the teams and training them, not only to be good athletes, but also to be good sportsmen.

Mr. Basil Alt, guidance director, is a new faculty member in a newly created position at St. John's. Mr. Alt aids students in choosing courses of study that will best prepare them for future work.

Our band is under the direction of Mr. Robert Slattery. Under his influence the band members learn the necessity of practicing to gain precision.

Three instructors from Jefferson High are also members of St. John's faculty. They teach our students vocational-agriculture and mechanical drawing: Mr. Lloyd Smith, Mr. John Crunkelton, Mr. Basker.

We students of St. John's owe very much gratitude to the faculty for the work they do for us. Their guidance and lessons will be a sound background throughout our lives.

The Rev. Thomas W. Kuhn

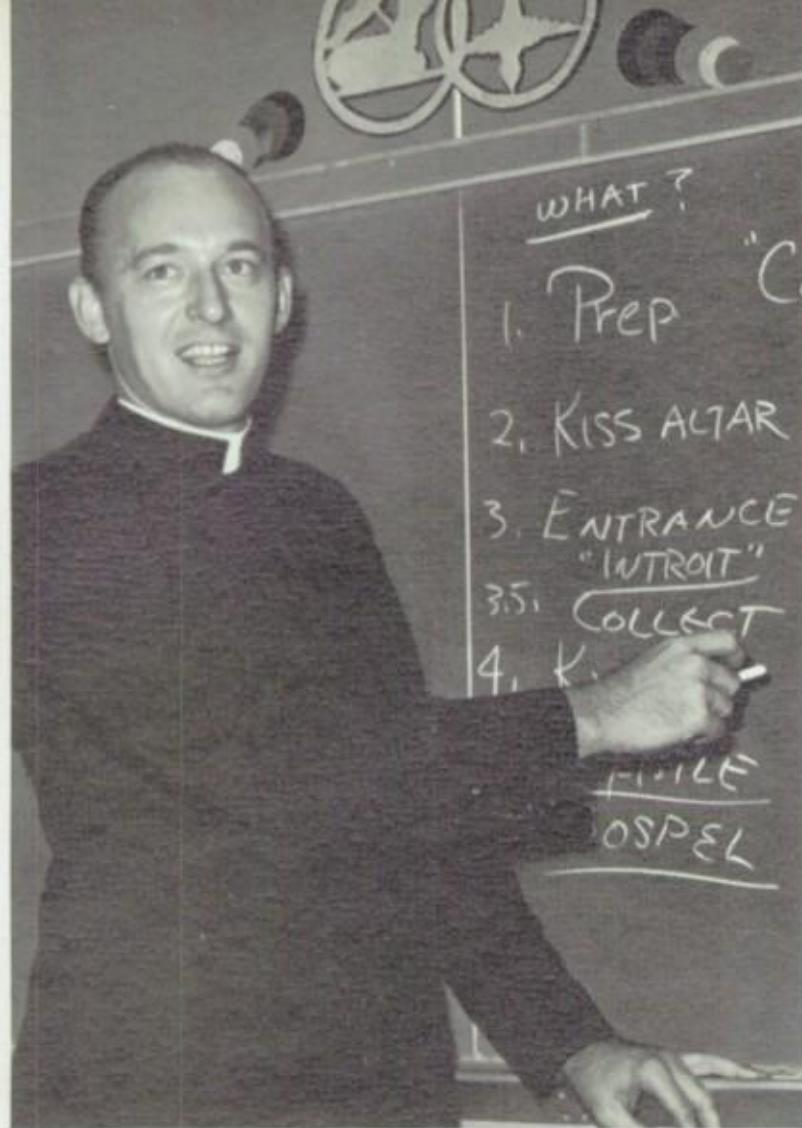

Every student is grateful to our principal, Father Kuhn, for all the time and effort he has spent trying to make our school the best possible.

Father Kuhn's has been a diversified role. As a priest he has been our spiritual guide; as an instructor he has molded our minds. As our athletic director and the director of the class play he has taught us the importance of teamwork and individual effort. It is his tremendous example that has shown us what school pride and loyalty mean; he taught us the true meaning of "esprit de corps."

Besides all this, Father Kuhn has been our friend. No matter how great or small a student's problem seemed to be or how busy Father's schedule, we always knew where we could turn for advice or encouragement. Father Kuhn's door was always open.

Our final year:

When the words, high school, are mentioned to a senior, his mind conjures up an image which is the composite of four years spent in learning, experiencing new activities, and having fun.

The impressions we gained as freshmen often inspired us with awe and apprehension. That first day found many freshmen quivering in their shoes or wandering about in a daze trying to find their way amidst much confusion. We soon learned where to go and what was expected of us once we reached our destination. The realization that high school was not just grade school extended and with more bells became apparent rather quickly. This was readily noticed in English class. No, English was never quite like this. We never had worked so hard nor learned so much before. That was the year we took on our first big responsibilities.

The freshman year quickly faded and we found ourselves sophomores. No longer were we the youngest; we had experience now. We also had biology lectures which somehow could branch off to civil rights. This was the class where we learned to dissect frogs and to dissect opinions to get to the facts. And, as had occurred the year before, we were given increased responsibilities and a greater part in the activities of our school.

We added many impressions in our junior year. Our retreat, with Father Karl as retreat master, inspired many of us to think more clearly about our duties to ourselves and others. Our classes that year became more difficult, and some of us branched off into courses of study which would help us to prepare for our future work or help us to decide just where our abilities really lie. Even our activities, such as making bushes, bushes, and more bushes for the spring formal, taught us to work as a class.

Our senior year was our year of decisions. We faced the fact that our high school days were drawing to a close. Many of us would be on our own—to stand or to fall. This was the year we came under the direct teaching of Father Kuhn. He did all that he could to prepare us for adult life.

All the impressions we gained in our four years have led us to the day of graduation. We look back with fond memories but we look forward with enthusiasm and confidence.

Our Senior Vocations:

These students have passed up many of the activities and social events described in this yearbook and have dedicated themselves to the goal of the religious life. These are the young men and women who will one day serve the spiritual needs of others.

This section of the yearbook gives recognition to the seniors who have left our community of Delphos to further their education in a religious atmosphere so that they may someday serve God in the religious life.

Theresa Miller and Lenora Pohl, who are attending Notre Dame Academy in Toledo, and Patricia Bockey, who is attending Precious Blood Convent in Dayton, are the girls representing St. John's. The senior boys at St. Meinrad's in Indiana are Roger Baumgarte, Joseph Miller, and Thomas Wannemacher. David Pohlman is studying for the brotherhood and Thomas Schmelzer for the priesthood at the Precious Blood seminary in Brunnerdale, Ohio.

The pursuit of

Within these walls, whether we realize it or not, we have received a great part of a lifelong formation. Each individual character has been subconsciously molded by teachers, personal study habits and relationships with other students. The degree of excellence of this mold has been our own doing and our own responsibility but this classroom environment has been the media with which we have formed ourselves to be what we are.

Many of the impressions registered in the classroom go out beyond the boundaries of that brick building. If we stop to realize it we can see many good habits, moral traits and ideals that we have transferred from school work to every day life. In this room we have built up confidence in ourselves as well as in our fellow students. In knowledge: Our guiding interest.

The Catholic high school classroom! Within its four walls we have been given the opportunity to learn. Here we have been guided to mature not only in knowledge but also in positive character traits. Yes, the classroom has provided the opportunity, but the prerogative to accept or reject all of this has been our own. The classroom is the key to the betterment of oneself but this key is of no value unless we have put forth the effort to unlock the door that opens to our own bright future.

As we reminisce over our few short years at SJH we may ask ourselves what basic impression the classroom has left upon us. Have we accepted it as a workshop for an apprenticeship into the adult world or have we rejected it as an impediment of our freedom in youth?

our every day acquaintances with others we have developed into the intelligent social being that the adult world will accept.

We have already received certain compensations for our activity in the classroom. Many of us have gained recognition for our achievements or have obtained the satisfaction of putting theoretical classroom discussion into practical use.

The keynote of the classroom, though, is the subtle realization that the knowledge and experience gained will be used, either consciously or subconsciously for the rest of our lives.

Students: Growing

As we advance through our high school years we come into contact with many persons, places and events which leave deep impressions upon us.

During these four years, as our bodies are maturing so also are our minds. With this new maturity we establish within ourselves a deeper understanding of and a closer contact with God. We assist at Mass everyday to strengthen the power we need to fight for Him. Each year our retreat is held to help us to grasp more fully those concepts we learned when we were younger and to give us the convictions to act in accord with Catholic principles.

We no longer recognize the principal as a tyrant but rather as a friend who will help us whenever we call on him.

daily in knowledge and wisdom.

Friends play a very important part in our lives. We are social beings; we cannot live without others around us.

A freshman is just beginning to form his impressions. This is very important because without the beginning nothing can be continued. His impressions will be very changeable during the course of his first year in regard to teachers and classes but this is only maturity emerging by trial and error methods.

The sophomore may still walk in a fog but towards the end of the year he will come out of it. At this point the student is usually deciding his future and his selection of courses can help to determine that future.

By the time the junior year is reached the student is well acquainted personally with his teachers and his principal.

At this point every help is needed and appreciated because even though one's mind may be made up, the cloud of confusion still has the tendency to close in in moments of decision.

In every phase of student life there will be impressions which we students receive from people we esteem. These friends may even help us to choose our own path in life. It may be a speech someone gives or a lesson an instructor imparts which makes us decide on a certain vocation. Our school and our friends will always follow us, perhaps not in physical form, but the impressions they have made will always be with us as we go our individual way toward our common destiny—the kingdom of God.

student, a time for fun

Taffany Miller, Jane Huysman and Sylvia Sanchez admire the shrine of the Blessed Virgin, in harvest theme, at the Halloween dance.

After hard

The social life at St. John's is a very lively one. There is always something worthwhile planned for the students' recreation. The activities are scheduled with the main intent of showing the students a good time in a wholesome manner and atmosphere. A spirit of cooperation is characteristic of all activities at St. John's.

To the freshman, the dances seem to be the most important events because they are new to him. The dances bring the freshman into a new society of fellow students and various age groups all doing the same things, having a good time. As a freshman, the first dance for which he decorates is at Halloween time. This is usually the first time the members of the class all work as a unit in order to make the activity a success.

work: A time for fun.

The sophomore leads another life, although the dances still have priority over other activities. As a sophomore he is rapidly approaching the realm of high school society "upperclassmanship." Outside of decorating for dances and working at ball games, this year the student helps to choose two girls whom he wants to represent the class in the homecoming court.

The junior sees his year as participating more seriously in activities which involve only upperclassmen. Being admitted to the student assemblies before the freshmen and sophomores in reality means nothing, but to a junior it is an honor. Throughout the entire year, the junior's eyes are cast in the direction of spring activities, the spring formal and the junior-senior class trip which are the two big events recognized as strictly "upperclassmen."

The senior has still another outlook in preference to social activities. Just as the junior, so also does the senior look forward to spring activity. The senior shows partiality to projects which concern only him, the class play and graduation. These two events stand out more strongly than the others since it is the last time the seniors will work together as a class.

The activities play a very important role in the building of our impressions because it is at these activities that we tie a bond between the four classes. It is here we learn to live in harmony as a group rather than just to go our own way as individuals.

Beauty and excitement combine to make a memorable evening for the 1964 Homecoming court: Sophomore attendants are Elizabeth Heitz escorted by Dennis Schwinnen and Linda Hoersten escorted by Daniel Kimmet. Dianne Stallkamp escorted by Joseph Schmelzer and Kathleen Flanagan escorted by Bill Martz are Junior attendants. Senior attendants are Janice Moenter escorted by Carl Sever and Sandra Lause escorted by Dan Beckman. Queen Kathleen Hollar is escorted by Robert Williams, Missions President and William Voigt, Student Council President.

Expressing her happiness and joy, Queen Kathleen Hollar thanks the students body for choosing her to represent St. John's.

Charles Fisher, Jan Bonifas, John Odenweller, and Patrick Rekart are acting as disc jockeys for the freshmen Halloween Dance.

Who's having the most fun? Edward Kimmet, J. Theodore Warnecke, Richard Will, Michael Van Autreve, Daniel Smith, and Frank Minnig seemingly are enjoying themselves more than the grade school students at the Children's festival.

Mary Weisgerber and Janet Scherger, Girls' State Delegates, and Robert Williams, Boys' State Delegate, have become more informed citizens through their experiences as delegates.

James Ernst, president; Constance Plumpe, secretary; Loyola Pothast, treasurer; and Joseph Schmelzer, vice-president; prepare last minute articles on current events for discussion in the Junior Council on World Affairs.

Michael Koester, Boys' State Alternate, and Jean Miller, and Jane Elwer Girls' State Alternate, realize their important role as American citizens.

"Come one, come all to the cake booth and win a cake for only a nickle," yells the hawker as the sophomores attempt an record.

Choral Club added sparkle to the Christmas program

The Choral Club officers: Joseph Schmelzer, pianist; John Say, president; Berna Best, secretary; Gregory Miller, printer; and Lonna Grewe, vice-president, account for the success of the Christmas program.

Team work and

As a supplement to our school work and as a week-end enjoyment for our student body, the athletic program has constituted an important part of our days at St. John's. This vital program has enabled us to "let off steam" by either actual participation or cheering.

By participation each of our athletes has been given the opportunity to show his combined physical and mental powers. Each practice was an experience of satisfaction for an all-out effort and a job well done.

By cheering, the remainder of the student body was able to show their appreciation and enthusiasm for the hard work put out on the gridiron, court and diamond by our hustling Blue Jays.

Athletics must be given substantial credit in developing a loyal school spirit among the students. Each game provided an opportunity for us to show to others our loyalty team spirit: Good lessons for us all.

to our team and to what our team represents. Our sports program was, and will continue to be, a program for the student body as a unit, not as a glory-gaining program for the individual. The individual's glory is the team's glory and the team's glory is the school's glory. We are a unit of representation. The individual effort is the team's effort which represents the student body's effort. When the team is down the student body is sympathetic to the cause by understanding and by renewing their enthusiasm.

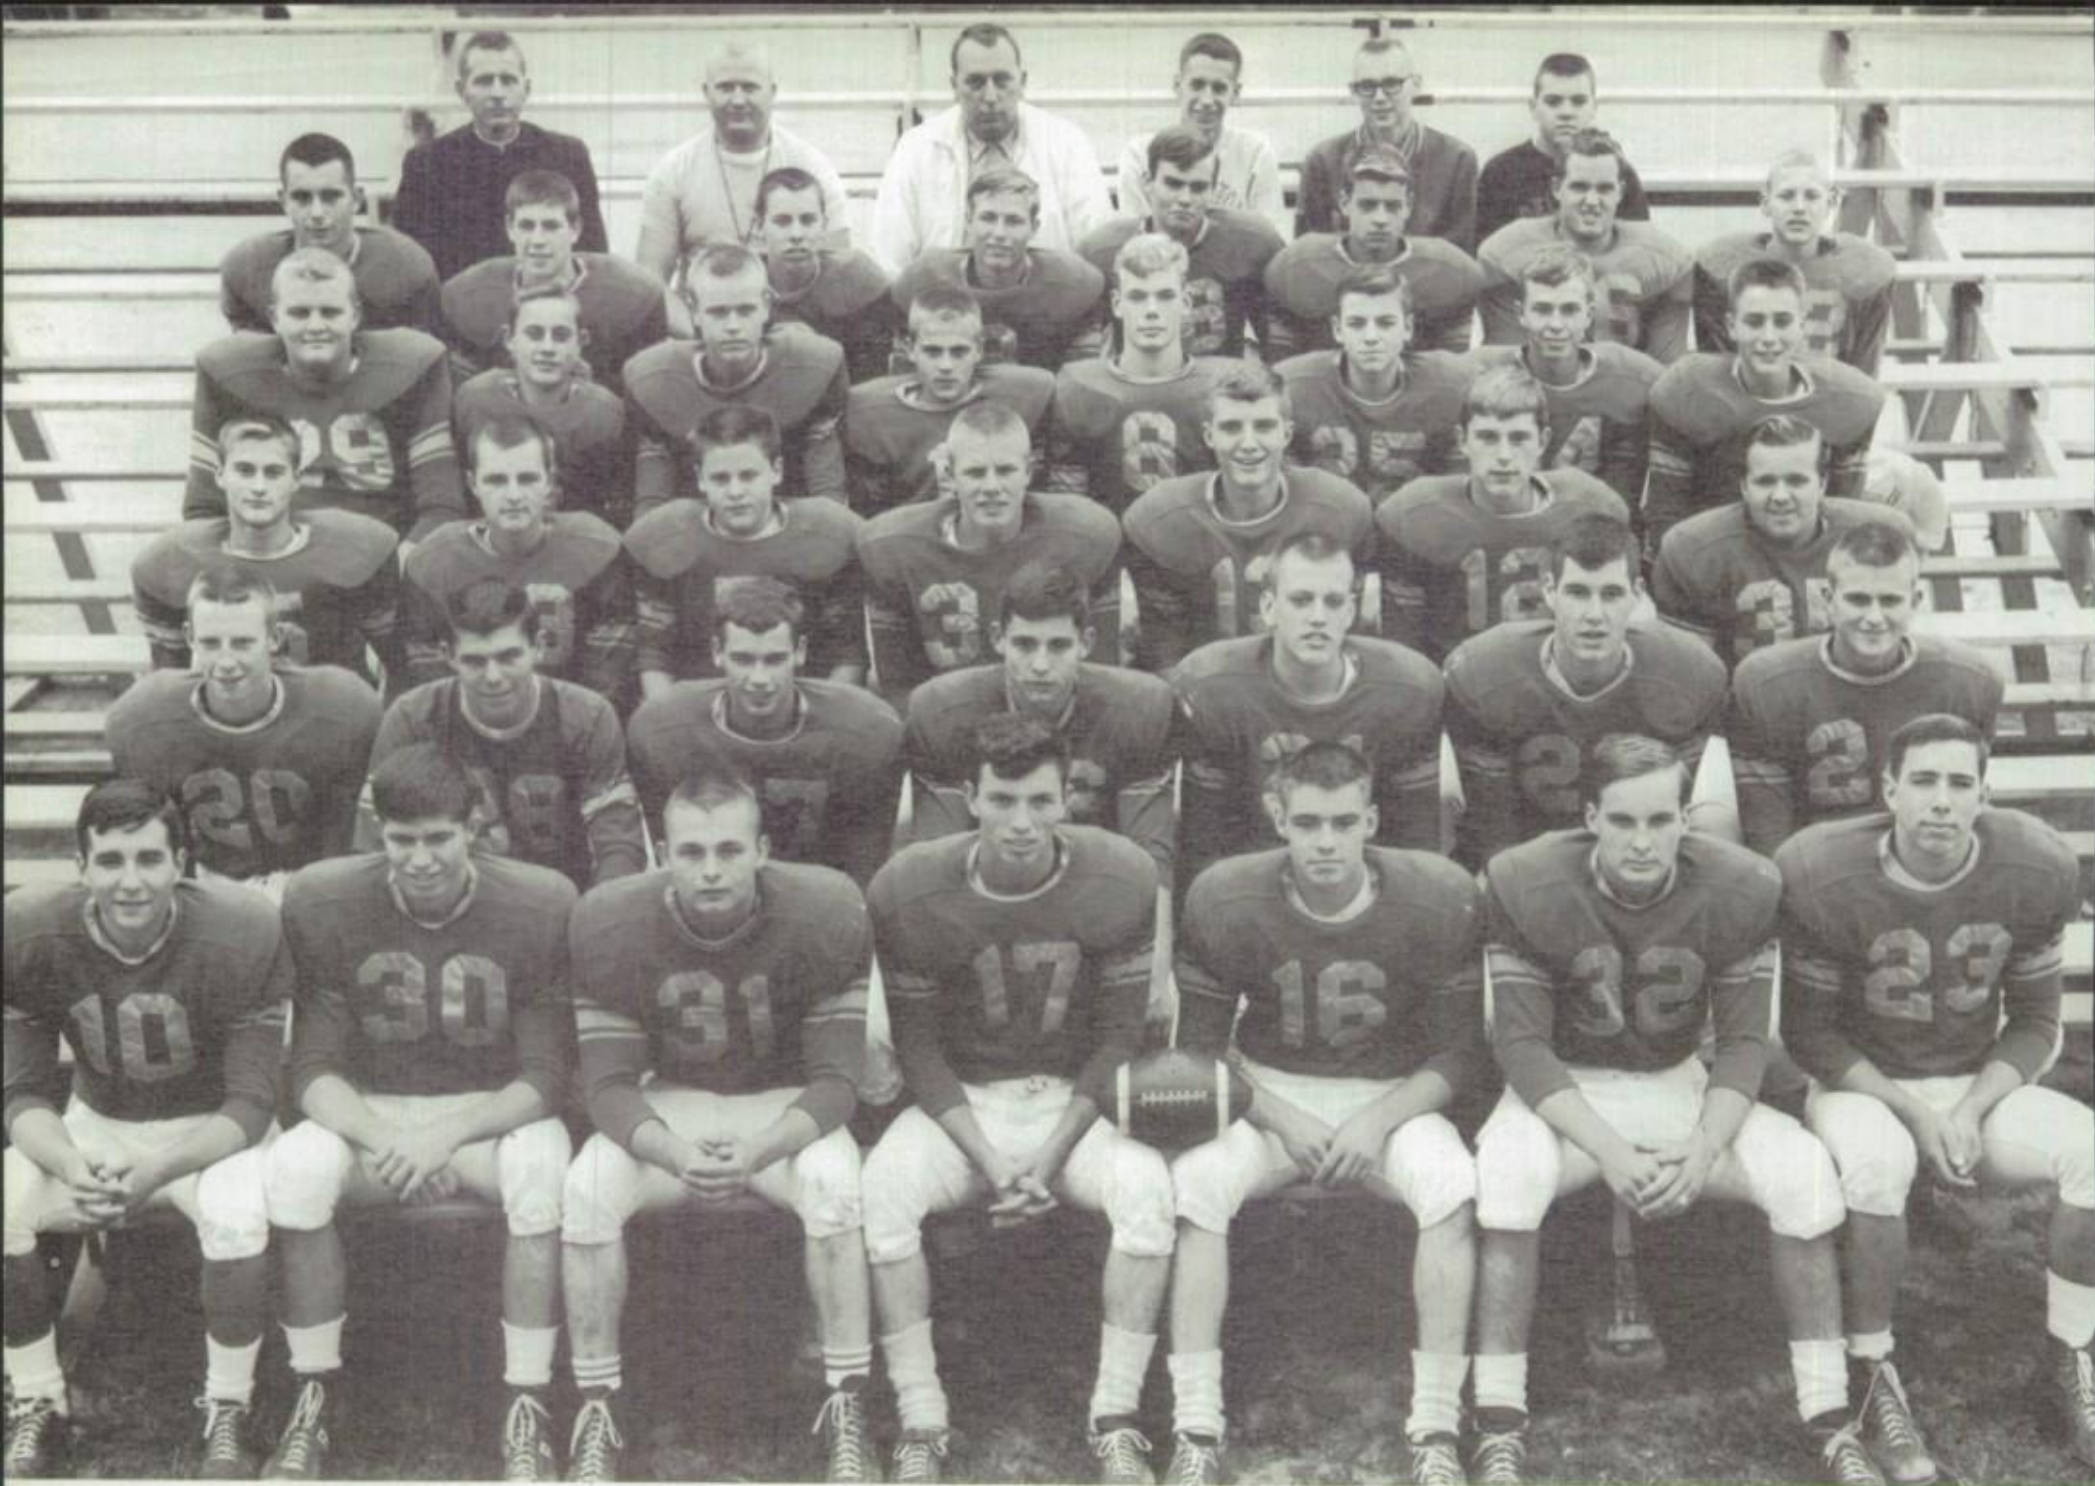

We all can easily remember the joys which the athletic program has given to us. How can we forget all of those Friday evenings cheering for our boys to cross the goal line, or whooping it up after a close victory on the gym floor, or for that last steel that would give the Blue Jays another victory on the diamond?

There was also always the election of cheerleaders. These girls have done a fine job of co-ordinating the student body to back the team.

Who can forget the bus ride to distant games or the exciting tournament games during basketball season? Who can account for the bubbling-over spirit of support of the teams by the entire school before a crucial game?

Our teams have always pushed for a victory for our school, but losing was always taken in stride. Our teams gave their best and the student body could ask for no more.

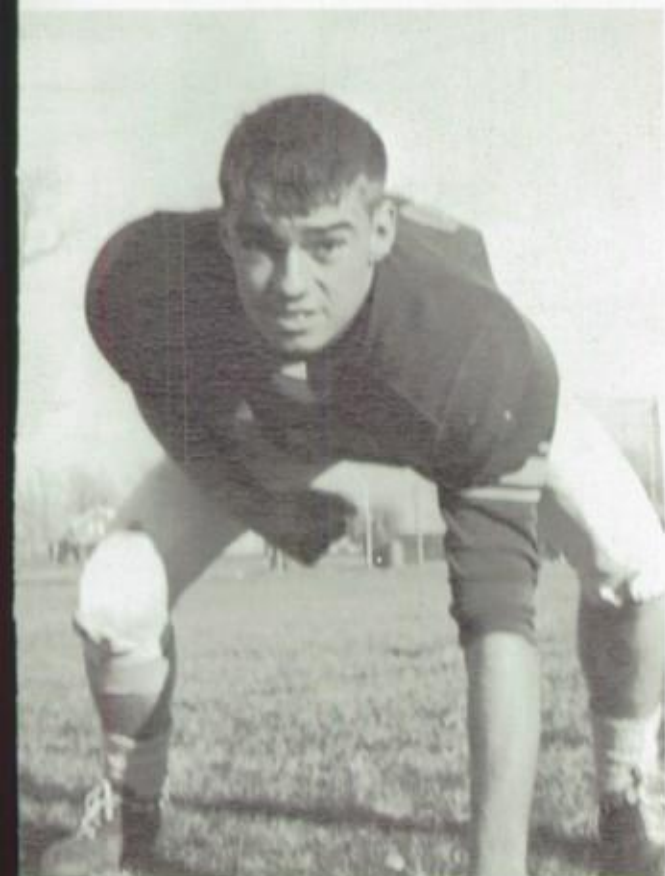

In the years to come the people of the community will remember many of the Blue Jay teams but they will also remember the spirit of the students which the teams represented.

Our many victories are attributed to the co-operation and team spirit of our varsity: (FIRST ROW) Fr. Kuhn, F. Minnig, S. Keister, T. Schmersal, C. Sever; (SECOND ROW) D. Weber—manager, M. Manore, G. Huysman, T. Carder, T. Wulforst—manager, Coach Arnzen; (THIRD ROW) A. Ulrich, J. Geddings, C. Osting, D. Hoehn, and G. Kill.

Cheering the Blue Jays on to many victories, the '65 Varsity Cheerleaders are Vickie Picker, Janice Moenter, Mary Pothast, Judy Wiechart, Kathy Rode, and Cindy Swick.

A thorn between two roses, an opponent begs for quarter as Tom Schmiersal (32) and Chuck Osting (44) close for the hill.

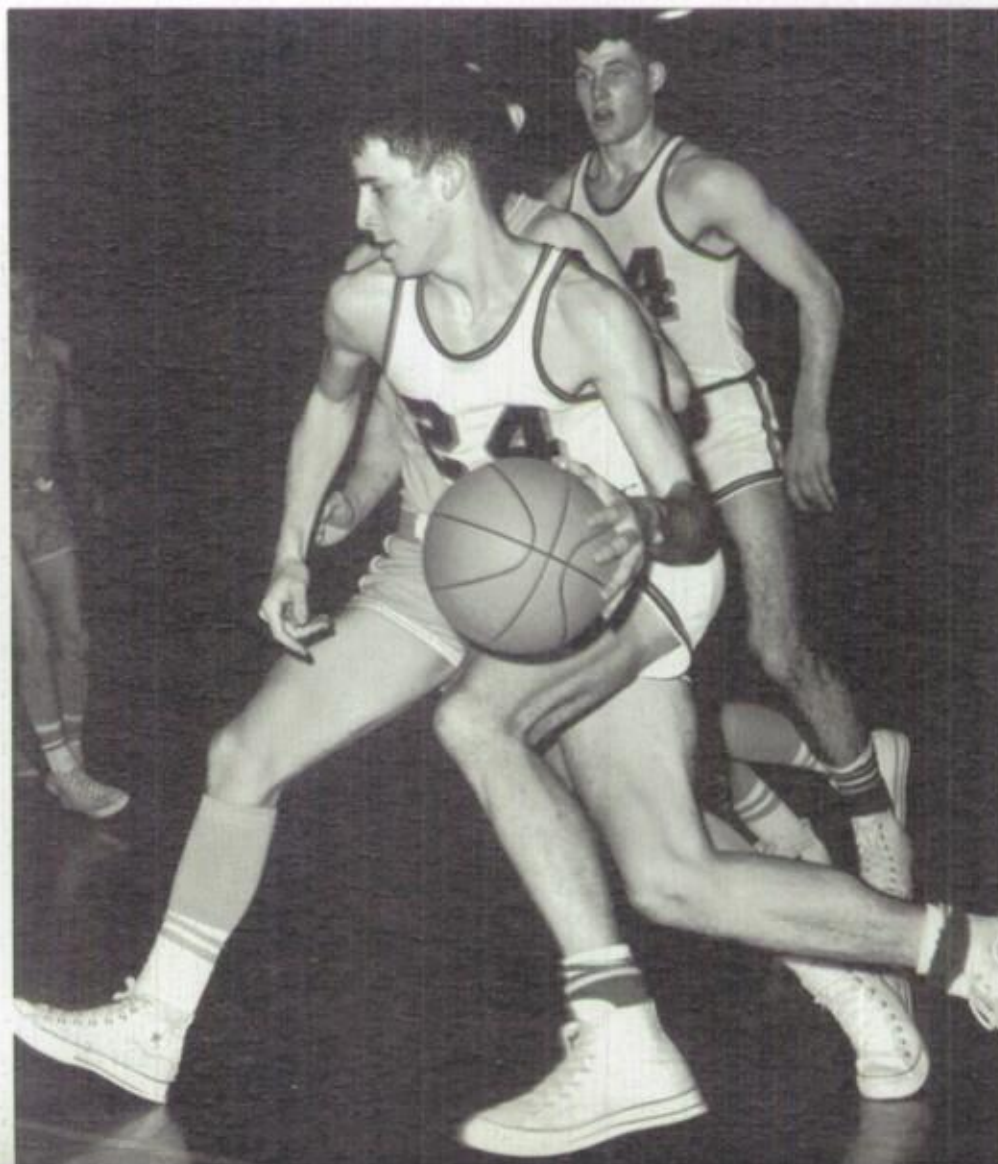

Feeling right at home, Dave Hoehn shoots out of a double-team.

In one of this year's many crowd-pleasing routines, Chuck Osting (44) scores with a reverse layup.

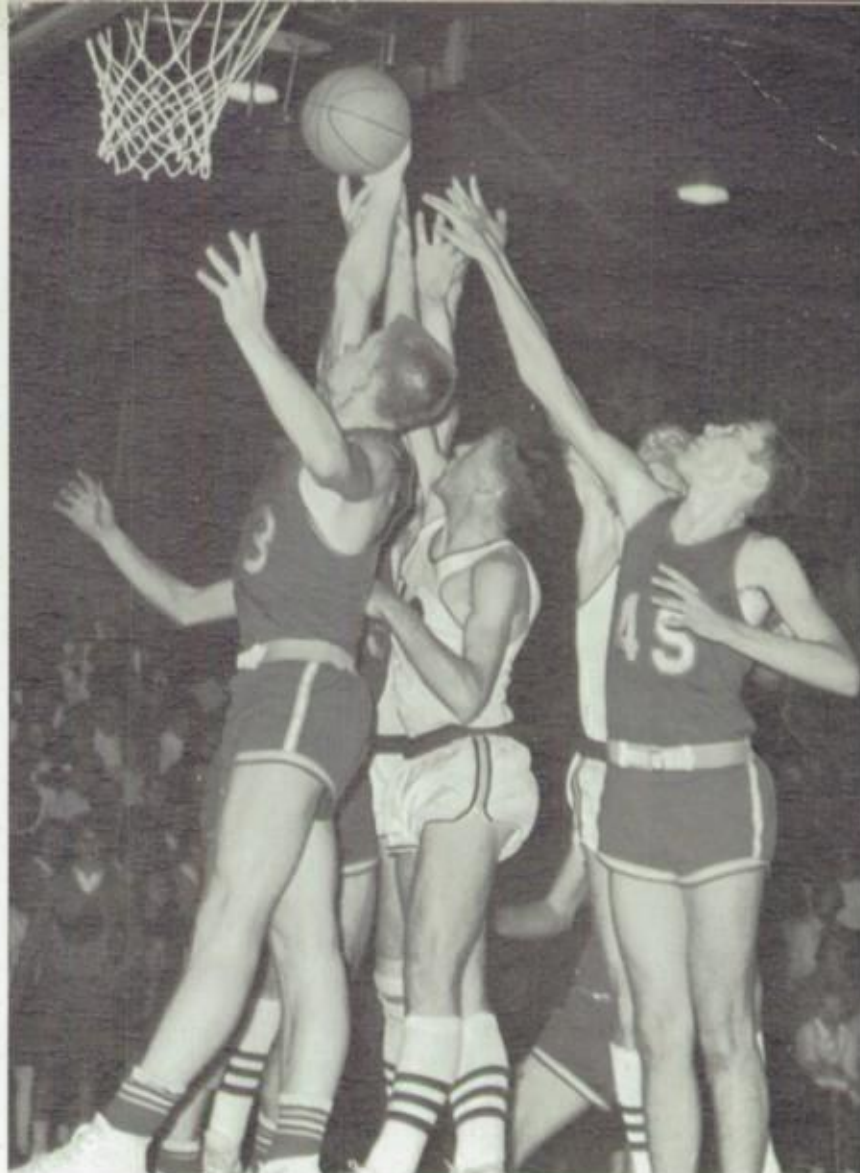

Eluding an anonymous defender, Steve Kiester (24) rambles past an incredulous Dave Hoehn (54).

Tom Schmiersal (32) leaps to get the tip for the Blue Jays at the start of another rousing quarter.

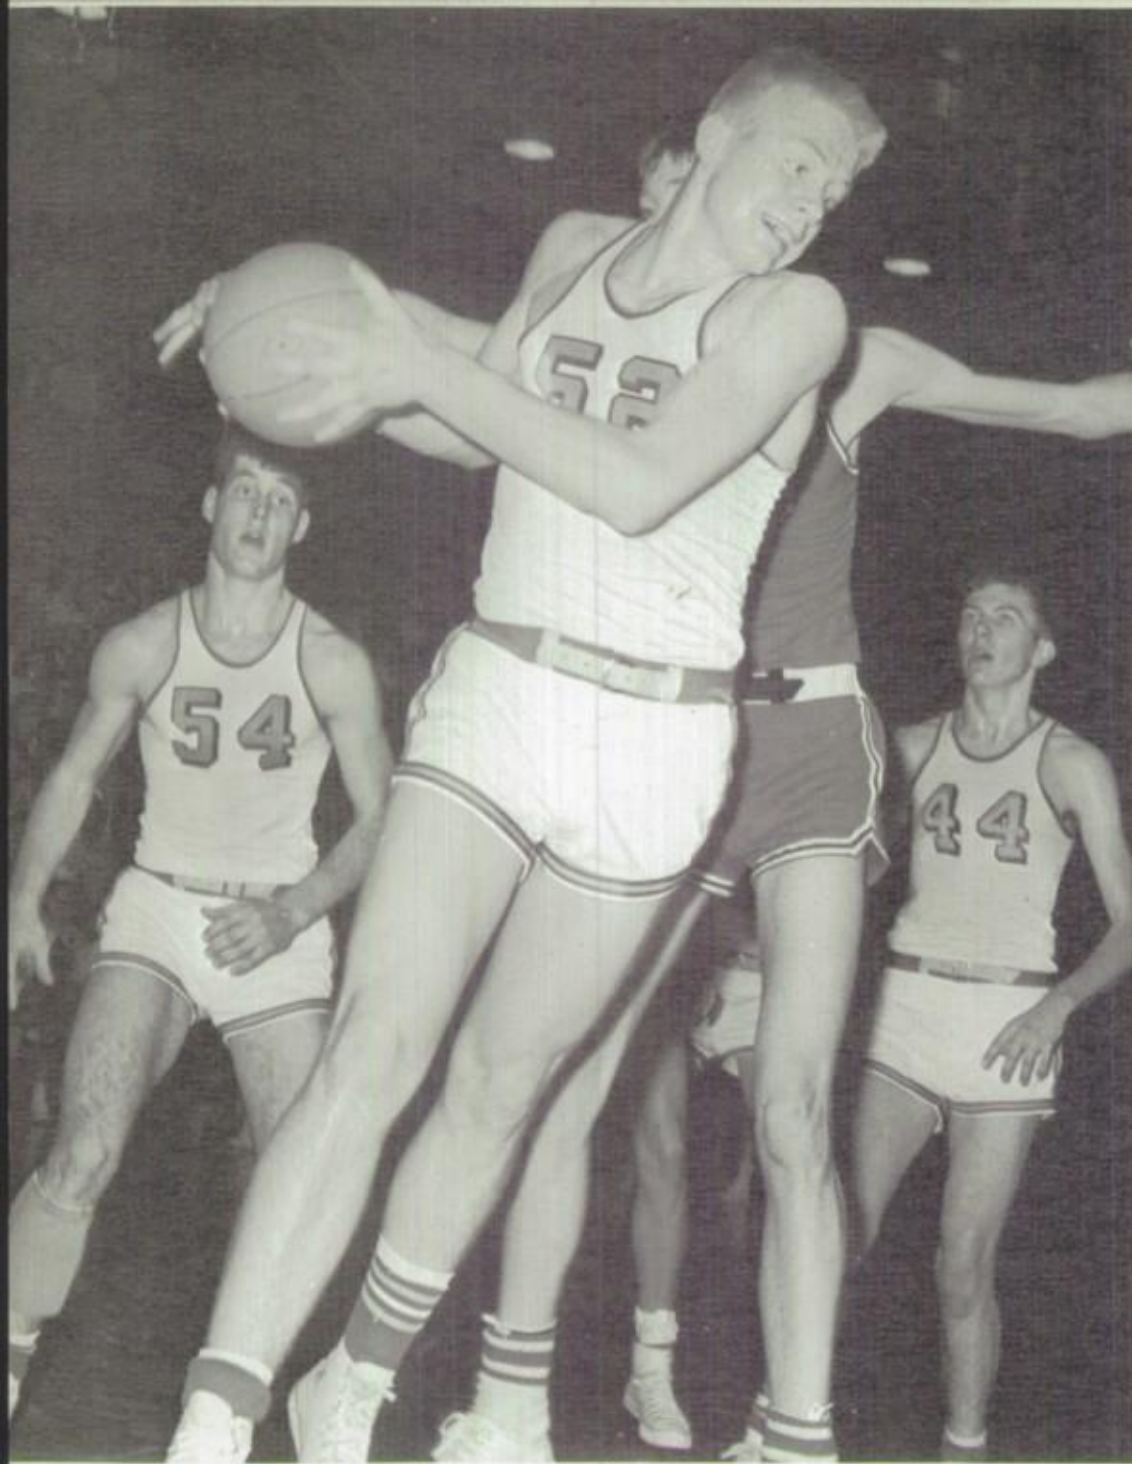

Frank Minnig (52) shows his great skill of rebounding that ranked him among the best at SJH as Chuck Osting (44) tries to help.

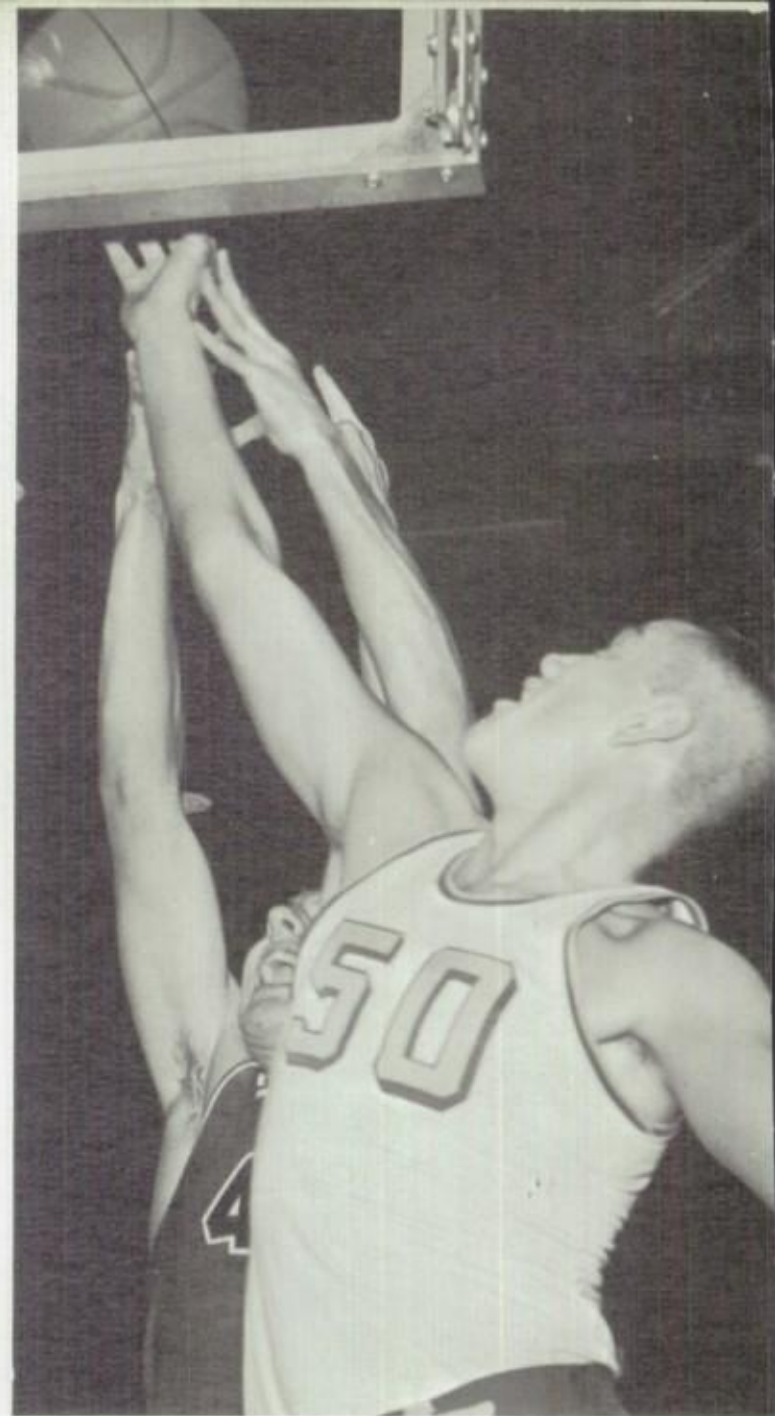

V-I-C-T-O-R-Y is our battle cry

"Pass the word down. They have lifts in their shoes," seems to be Coach Arnzen's words as Coach Kurucz, Coach Altenburger, Fr. Kuhn, Jimmy Arnzen, D. Hoehn, F. Minnig, S. Keister, M. Manore, and G. Kill look on.

"See you later after the game, Big Boy," rages Frank Minnig (52) as Dave Hoehn (54) and Chuck Osting (44) gaze in amazement.

Joe Geddings (50) shows that last bit of effort that gives him basket against an aggressive Shawnee Indian.

Steve Keister (24) pumps in a twenty foot jump shot in spite of Ottoville's efforts to stop it.

Dave Hoehn (54) scores two more with an often-seen jump shot.

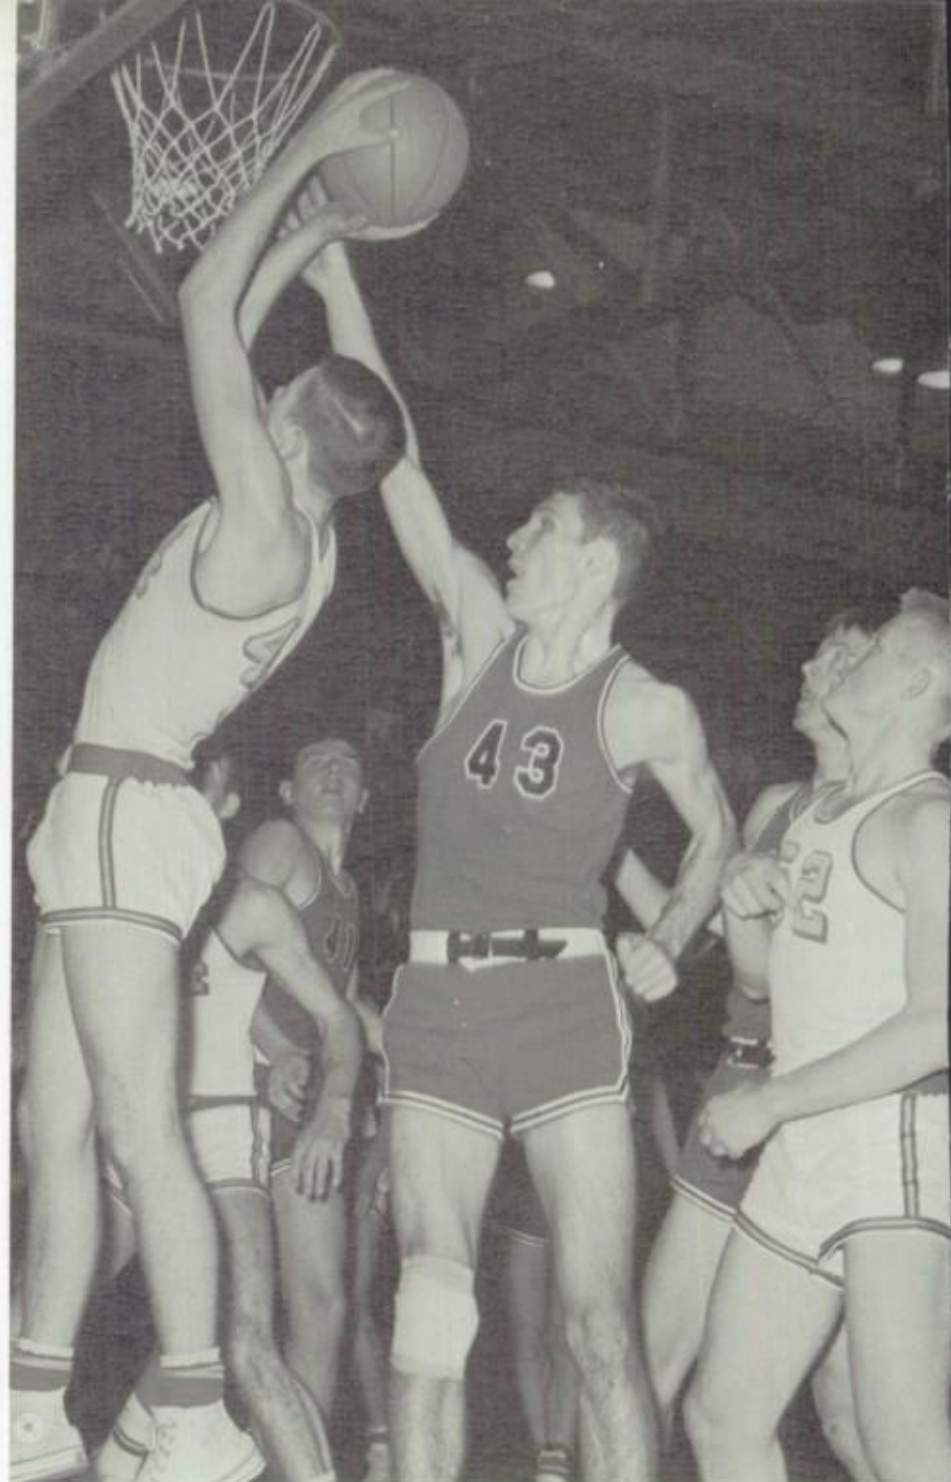

"Too late, buddy!" Tucker gets free and shoots for two more.

Dave Hoehn (54) jumps for the ball as Chuck Osting (44) tries to fly and help. Other SJH players are Steve Keister (24) and Frank Minnig (52).

Coach Arnzen, honored mentor of our basketball team, breathes a sigh of relief after a close battle with Ayersville.

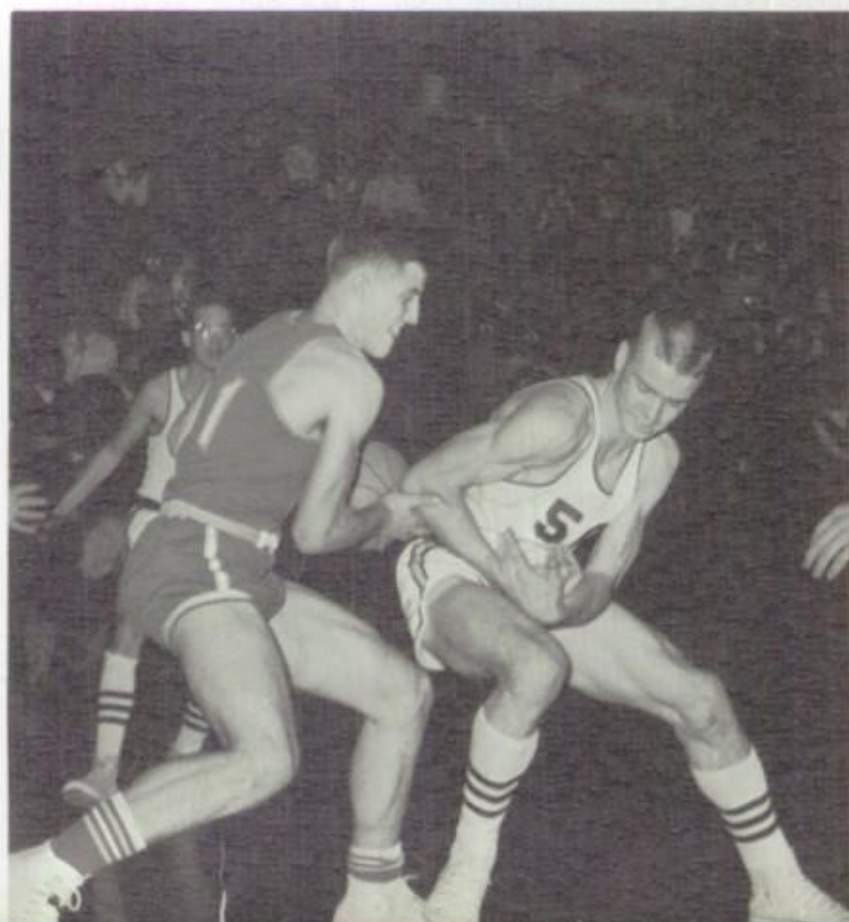

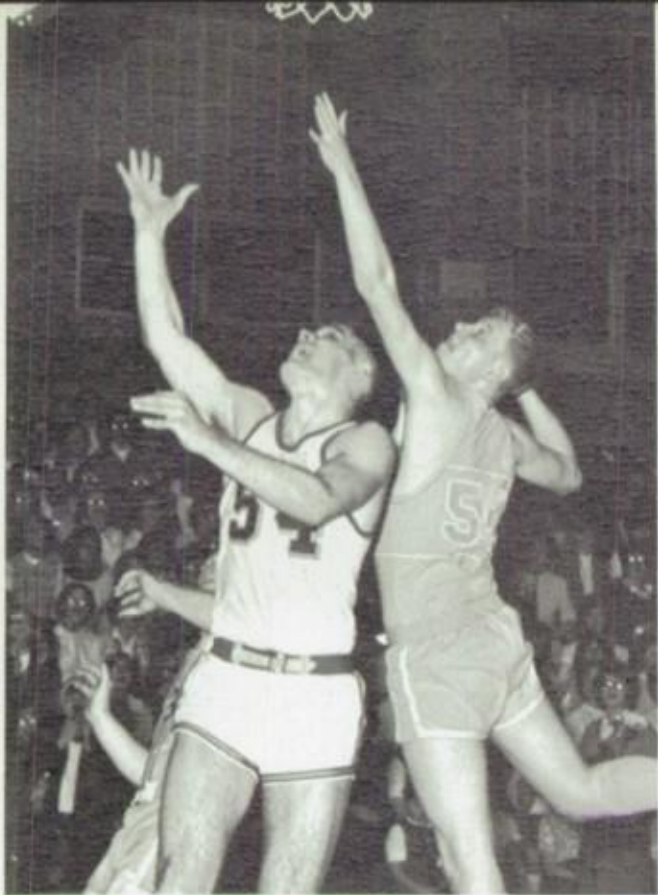

Frank Minnig (52) displays pride as he watches his apprentice, Chuck Osting (44), lay up more points for the Jays.
